EXPLANATION: STUDENT DISCIPLINE

This policy was modified to:

1. Add the following paragraph titled "Impact on Grades" stating that out-of-school suspensions could lead to the student earning a lower grade.

Impact on Grades

As with any absence, absences due to an out-of-school suspension may result in the student earning a lower grade in accordance with the district's policy on absences.

Please note that MSBA's standard attendance policy JED and procedures JED-AP1, JED-AP2 and JED-AP3 categorize out-of-school suspensions as excused absences. However, the procedures do state that students with even excused absences may not earn the full grade if the student has missed ten or more days of school. For that reason, MSBA has added this language to clarify that students who receive a suspension, as with other excused absences, might earn a lower grade in accordance with district policy.

If your district has adopted a custom attendance policy or procedure, please determine whether out-of-school suspensions could lead to students earning a lower grade and alter this section accordingly. [Editor's Note: I removed the sentence regarding "Impact on Grades" because the district has customized its attendance procedures and removed Out-of-School Suspension from the list of excused absences, meaning that, from what I can tell, the district does use grade reduction as a disciplinary measure. Please read the NOTICE section of this Explanation and the Editor's Note at the very end to make sure that I have interpreted the district's current practice correctly.]

2. Add the offense of assault in the third degree to this model discipline code to assist administrators in determining the level of disciplinary action appropriate based on the seriousness of the assault.
3. Add "Failure to Care for or Return District Property" as an offense separate from "Vandalism."
4. Modify "Technology Misconduct" to recognize that students may be able to use mobile phones or other personal electronic devices during the school day in situations where they are encouraged to do so as part of the educational program or as allowed by the principal. Several school districts and school buildings have embraced the concept of "Bring Your Own Device," which encourages students to use mobile phones, laptops, tablets and other Internet-capable devices for educational purposes. MSBA did not want the technology misconduct offense to be a barrier to this practice, when approved by the district. MSBA has a new sample policy on this topic: EHBA, Student Use of Personal Electronic Devices for Instructional Purposes. Please contact the Policy department if you wish to review this policy and related forms.

5. Expand the "Tobacco" offense to address the increasing use of electronic cigarettes as well as medications used in tobacco cessation programs.

NOTICE: Does your district prohibit students from earning credit for course work, limit the amount of credit students may earn, or take credit earned away from students while they are suspended from school?

In addition to simply not allowing students to earn top grades if they have been absent from school, many districts also have policies or practices that prohibit suspended students from earning grades for work completed while on suspension, or even prohibit earning credit in the class. MSBA does not recommend these practices because they discourage academic achievement and frequently result in students who return to school less motivated to behave because the student realizes he or she will fail the class. There are legal reasons to reconsider this practice as well.

In John S. v. Ozark R-VI School District, 2012 WL 176226 (January 18, 2012), a student was suspended from school for ten days. In accordance with the district's practice, the student was only allowed to earn a maximum of 50 percent of the grade for any course work completed during the term of the suspension. The parents did not dispute the suspension, but requested a hearing before the Board to address the grade reduction, which was denied.

The federal district court found that the district's policy of grade reduction was unlawful. The court noted that Missouri state law requires districts to have a discipline policy, but the grade reduction was not listed as one of the discipline consequences. The district's practice also conflicted with another district policy that specifically stated that grades would not be used for disciplinary purposes.

If your district's policy or practice is to reduce, limit or remove the grades that may be earned by students who are suspended, including not allowing students to make up work during a suspension, MSBA strongly recommends that you discuss this practice with the district's private attorney. While the court in John S. did not explicitly state that a district could never legally reduce a student's grade, the manner in which it was done in that case was illegal. This means that any district with a similar practice needs to be prepared to offer a due process hearing before the Board and should make sure that its policies are consistent.

While MSBA does not endorse this practice, if your district does reduce or deny grades to students who are suspended, please do the following:

1. Review policy IK, Academic Achievement. MSBA's standard policy states, "grades are not to be used as a disciplinary measure." If your district does use grades as a disciplinary measure, this sentence needs to be removed. [Policy IK has been included with this Update package.]
2. Review policy JED, Student Absences and Excuses, and procedures JED-AP1, JED-AP2 and JED-AP3. MSBA's standard policy states, "No rule or procedure will preclude a student from making up work missed due to any type of absence, including absences due to suspension." If your district does use grades as a disciplinary measure, this sentence needs to be removed. Similarly, if the district does not allow students to reduce accrued absences by attending make-up sessions, this language must be removed from JED-AP1, JED-AP2 and JED-AP3.
3. Remove the new "Impact on Grades" section MSBA has added to this policy and replace it with language that accurately reflects the district's practice of including a grade reduction as a disciplinary measure. Please be advised that there are due process implications to this practice, and MSBA encourages the district to discuss this practice with the district's private attorney. The following language is provided as an example of language the district might add. Please revise it as necessary to reflect the district's actual practices.

Academic Consequences

Students who are suspended from school will not be allowed to earn full credit for course work completed during the term of the suspension. Students may earn a maximum of ___ percent for the work completed. The district will provide appropriate due process in accordance with law prior to finalizing the student's grade for a course.

[Editor's Note]: Because the district already removed Out-of-School Suspension from the list of excused absences in JED-AP2, I am assuming that the district does include grade reduction as a disciplinary measure for students on suspension. Therefore, I added the "Academic Consequences" paragraph set out above instead of the "Impact on Grades" sentence that is going into the MSBA standard JG-R. I am also including a reference copy of policy IK, Academic Achievement, in this Update with the last sentence prohibiting the use of grade reduction as a disciplinary measure struck out. Please review these actions to make sure that I have interpreted the district's current practice correctly.]

STUDENT DISCIPLINE (Middle School)

Student Code of Conduct

The Student Code of Conduct is designed to foster student responsibility, respect for others and to ensure the orderly cooperation of the district schools. In determining the consequence or punishment for acts violating the standard of conduct, the responsible school official will examine the facts and circumstances surrounding the case. No code can be expected to list each and every offense that may result in the use of disciplinary action; however, it is the purpose of the code to list certain offenses which, if committed by a student, will result in the imposition of a specific penalty. Out-of-school suspensions are unexcused absences. Board administrators may establish further rules and regulations and, if needed, deviate from the handbook for the maintenance of proper school discipline. School administrators may establish further rules and regulations and in some cases deviate from the handbook for the maintenance of proper school discipline. Students should be aware that the order of consequences will not always be followed due to the many different circumstances surrounding each individual case, previous incidents and warnings, student attitude, and extenuating circumstances. This code includes, but is not necessarily limited to, acts of students on district property, including playgrounds, parking lots and district transportation, or at a district activity, whether on or off district property. The district may also discipline students for off-campus conduct that negatively impacts the educational environment, to the extent allowed by law.

In arriving at the consequences or discipline to be imposed, consideration shall be given to:

- < The maturity level of the student
- < Attitude of the student
- < Any extenuating circumstances
- < The seriousness of the act
- < Prior incidents of misconduct
- < Intent of the student
- < Degree of involvement of the student
- < Appropriateness of the punishment

Although not indicated in the individual consequences, a disciplinary report will be sent home with the student any time a student is involved in a discipline problem, unless it is a minor infraction. Also, a parent conference may be required at anytime to discuss a particular problem. On the day of the disciplinary action, a student is not allowed to attend or participate in extracurricular activities or any other district-sponsored after-school activities; for example, dances, BACK-UP activities, Honors Assembly, etc. Students involved in misconduct may lose the privilege of participation or may be denied extracurricular activities.

Listed below are disciplinary actions or consequences that may occur:

- < Conference and parent notification
- < Referral to the counselor's office
- < Detention
- < Saturday School
- < Suspension of bus privileges
- < In-school suspension (ISS)
- < Out-of-school suspension (OSS)
- < Expulsion
- < Restitution/Payment of replacement cost

Reporting to Law Enforcement

It is the policy of the Camdenton R-III School District to report all crimes occurring on district property to law enforcement, including, but not limited to, the crimes the district is required to report in accordance with law. A list of crimes the district is required to report is included in policy JGF.

A school administrator shall also notify the appropriate law enforcement agency and superintendent if a student is discovered to possess a controlled substance or weapon in violation of the district's policy.

In addition, the superintendent shall notify the appropriate division of the juvenile or family court upon suspension for more than ten days or expulsion of any student who the district is aware is under the jurisdiction of the court.

Documentation in Student's Discipline Record

The principal, designee or other administrators or school staff will maintain all discipline records as deemed necessary for the orderly operation of the schools and in accordance with law and policy JGF.

Conditions of Suspension, Expulsion and Other Disciplinary Consequences

All students who are suspended or expelled, regardless of the reason, are prohibited from participating in or attending any district-sponsored activity, or being on or near district property or the location of any district activity for any reason, unless permission is granted by the superintendent or designee. In addition, the district may prohibit students from participating in activities or restrict a student's access to district property as a disciplinary consequence even if a student is not suspended or expelled from school, if appropriate.

Students are responsible to the driver at all times and are expected to be courteous and considerate to other students as well.
